A new generation tax

Kommersant estimated how much energy companies would pay a windfall tax. The total contribution of the Russian electric power sector to the budget as a windfall tax, according to Kommersant's calculations, will be up to RUB 25 billion. The largest payments may fall on Rosenergoatom, Inter RAO and Rosseti. The government, according to Kommersant's sources, continues to discuss whether the withdrawals will affect the implementation of a costly program for the modernization of old thermal power plants and the construction of electric grids for the Eastern Poligon. However, analysts believe that the total payment for the sector is not so great, and for Rosseti and RusHydro, with their large investment programs, an exception could be made.
