The Cabinet of Ministers approved measures to stimulate regions to switch to differentiated tariffs

The Russian government has approved a new procedure for determining the maximum value of cross-subsidization – from 1 January 2024, regional authorities will have to switch to a differentiated electricity tariff if they want to increase business payments for reducing tariffs for the population, follows from a resolution signed by Prime Minister Mikhail Mishustin. As the Federal Antimonopoly Service of Russia explained to TASS, the resolution provides for indexation of the maximum value of cross-subsidization.
