The Ministry of Energy of the Russian Federation expects the draft on systemically important TGO to be submitted to the State Duma in the near future

The Ministry of Energy of the Russian Federation expects that the government will submit to the State Duma in the near future a bill on a backbone territorial grid organization (TGO), Deputy Head of the Ministry of Energy Evgeniy Grabchak told TASS.

"We expect that the law on the BTGO will be submitted to the State Duma in the near future," he said. During the meeting of the State Duma Committee on Energy held on Wednesday, 13 March, Grabchak noted that currently, according to the Ministry of Energy, out of 988 TGOs, 34% do not meet the minimum requirements for ensuring the reliability of the grid. Unscrupulous owners have adapted to the new rules and are taking measures to fictitiously pool assets to meet the new criteria. Over the past two years, about 40 new TGOs have been created.
