FAS to be responsible for tariff setting in Russia's regions

The State Duma passed a law in its second and third readings that grants the Federal Antimonopoly Service (FAS) the right to revise regional electricity tariffs if they are set in violation of the law, such as unjustified increases leading to higher utility bills. Prior to the law's adoption, the service had no such responsibility.

Rosseti Centre supplied electricity to two residential complexes in Stary Oskol

Specialists from the branch of Rosseti Centre - Belgorodenergo constructed the power grid infrastructure and connected the Sadovye Kvartaly residential complex and a 10-story comfortable apartment building in Stary Oskol to the grid. The total connected capacity of the facilities will be 880 kW. To ensure reliable power supply to the new buildings, the branch's specialists installed two package transformer substations equipped with modern communication and data transmission channels and constructed several sections of cable power lines with a total length of approximately 7 km.
