The production of electric vehicles in Russia to increase to 18 thousand units by the end of 2023

Russia is increasing the production of electric vehicles. The demand for them is also growing noticeably. By the end of this year, their production will be increased to 18 thousand units, and next year – to 36 thousand units.

First Deputy Prime Minister of the Russian Federation Andrei Belousov noted that this is due to the increase in electric vehicle charging stations in the country, RBC reports. In 2022, 439 charging stations were built. As a result, today there are 24 thousand electric vehicles registered in the Russian Federation.
