The Ministry of Energy proposes to increase tariffs for mining centres manifoldly

The Ministry of Energy advocates a several-fold increase in electricity transmission tariffs for industrial farms for cryptocurrency mining. It is proposed to increase prices in energy-scarce regions, including the most popular for cryptocurrency mining Irkutsk region. The goal is to force mining centres to move to regions with excess capacity. According to the owners of mining farms, the ministry's initiative discriminates against legal consumers of electricity and will lead to a shutdown of the industry due to losses.
