Consumers estimate the cost of introducing grid benchmarks at RUB 87 billion, propose a multiple increase in the TGO efficiency improvement index

Large businesses estimate the additional burden of implementing cost benchmarks for grid organizations operating in 2026 at RUB 87 billion per year. To improve control over grid costs, consumers are proposing a multiple increase in the operational efficiency improvement index used to calculate the benchmarks. Analysts believe this is only possible after the regulatory debt accumulated by grid organizations is eliminated.
