FAS voiced proposals for "adjusting" differentiated tariffs

Deputy head of the Federal Antimonopoly Service of the Russian Federation Gennady Magazinov, at a seminar of the tariff regulation service, spoke about the service's proposals for "adjusting" differentiated energy tariffs. Differentiation of tariffs for the population by volume of electricity consumption for 2024 has been introduced in 57 constituent entities of the Russian Federation. In six of them - within the framework of the social norm for energy consumption, in 51 constituent entities of the Russian Federation - within the framework of the differentiation mechanism by volume. Moreover, in most of these regions, where differentiated tariffs are established, the threshold value of electricity consumption for the first range is determined at the level of 10 thous. kWh a month or more, which significantly exceeds real consumption values.
