ELECTRIC POWER INDUSTRY NEWS

Additional payments push generating companies out of the wholesale energy market

Generation companies are leaving the wholesale energy market in large numbers due to the multitude of non-market mechanisms. As Kommersant found out, over the past five years, 49 power plants with a total capacity of 1.2 GW decided to trade electricity in the retail market - directly with a consumer or a sales company. In this way, a TPP can quadruple income, experts say, and a direct buyer can save up to 10% of the cost of electricity. Only special restrictions can stop the generation companies' leave, market participants say.
